

TRANSPORTATION - SPECIAL EDUCATION STUDENTS

Parents who transport their child to approved special educational services outside the child's attendance center are eligible for mileage reimbursement when appropriate bus service is not already provided.

Those eligible for transportation reimbursement include children who attend state or private special educational institutions, children who require services outside their neighborhood attendance center, children receiving an approved educational evaluation out of town and parents attending an annual IEP meeting at a state or private special educational institution.

The rate of reimbursement will be the state per mile rate, or the cost of public transportation up to the amount which would be reimbursed for mileage. The number of trips allowed per year per child will be established at each child's annual IEP meeting.